- Previous funding and implementation of Womankind activities have been sector specific. By mobilizing its resources along sectoral lines.
- WOKIKE plans and budget are prepared along the respective sectors, thus making them easy to understand and report, especially by the project staff and the partner communities.

DROUGHT INTERVENTION AND EMERGENCE RESPONSE

Womankind undertakes programme activities intended to curb the effects of drought that is recurrent in every two-three years. Women and the girl child are the most affected in the periods of dry spell. Women have a responsibility of fetching water and during this difficult period they spend more than three hours covering a distance not less than 30kms. This makes them weak and vulnerable to diseases. Womankind had realised the need to carry out community dialogues on emergency priorities for women affected by drought and emergencies, which will chance to communities to come up with coping mechanisms and livelihood patterns. To arrest the situation wokike;

1. WOKIKE provided 2,100 meters of polythene papers to displaced women for shelter improvement. 525 households benefited from the exercise; as each household received 4 meters.
2. Water tinkering to institutions, vulnerable villages, orphanage centres and schools. Womankind Kenya provided an average of 20,000 litres of wholesome water. This is intended to quench the thirst of many women who use most of their valuable time looking for this basic commodity.
3. Provision of fuel to boreholes: Womankind Kenya responded to such by providing 10,000litres of diesel to an average of 10 boreholes in the driest months of the year. This is done to relieve the ailing economy of the pastoral communities of Northeast. Their purchasing power always goes low especially during the dry spell.

4. Womankind Kenya distributed foodstuffs to the most vulnerable members and villages targeting the old, children, the disabled, women and pregnant mothers. Womankind Kenya distributed maize flour, powder milk, cooking oil, salts and beans to raise their nutrition status. Schools and institutions, which bear the brunt, are also targeted in such emergency response. Orphanages and the few existing girls home are given the first priority.

Relief food to the hardly hit communities

5. Children are the most affected at the times of drought and emergencies. Womankind Kenya opened up feeding centre-targeting children coming from destitute families and pastoralists dropouts. Womankind Kenya run feeding centres where children are given highly nutritious porridge for children totalling to four hundred and fifty children. Al-furqan orphanage, Moi boarding and Masalani primary schools were targeted. Old men and women were equally inclusive of the beneficiaries.
